PASSION AND KNOW-HOW

Passion and experience, love for marble and creativity.
These are the distinguishing features of our business.

TAKT is a company based in Volargne Dolcè, at the heart of the marble district which has long been synonymous with excellence in the extraction and processing of one of the finest materials for interior and exterior furnishings. Over the years, we have learned about the material's culture and developed an ability to maximise its value and use. In the present, we use state of the art technology. TAKT operates worldwide in the residential and contract sector.

Our experience is based on thorough knowledge and understanding of the market, thanks to the founding owners' many years in the sector. We are strongly attached to our roots and look to the world as a whole so that our clients can confidently place their trust in a capable and reliable partner, able to manage the entire project – from the choice of materials through to laying and installation. Over the years, TAKT has developed synergies and collaborations with the leading players in the industry in order to guarantee the best advice possible, in terms of both the selection of materials and their employment as part of a project.

Selection and procurement decisions do not regard just marble but, also, onyx, granite, limestone, travertine, slate and slabs of semi-precious materials. The criteria followed by us undoubtedly take account of aesthetic aspects (colour, physical and geological characteristics) but always while paying due attention to suitability for intended use and the client's budget requirements.

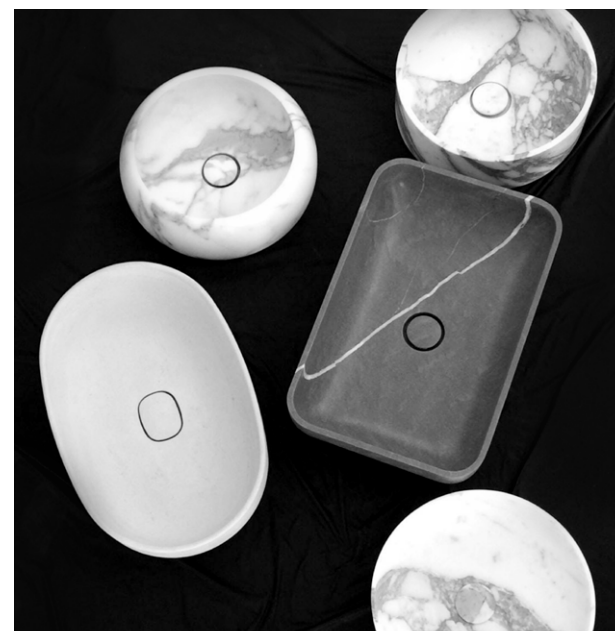

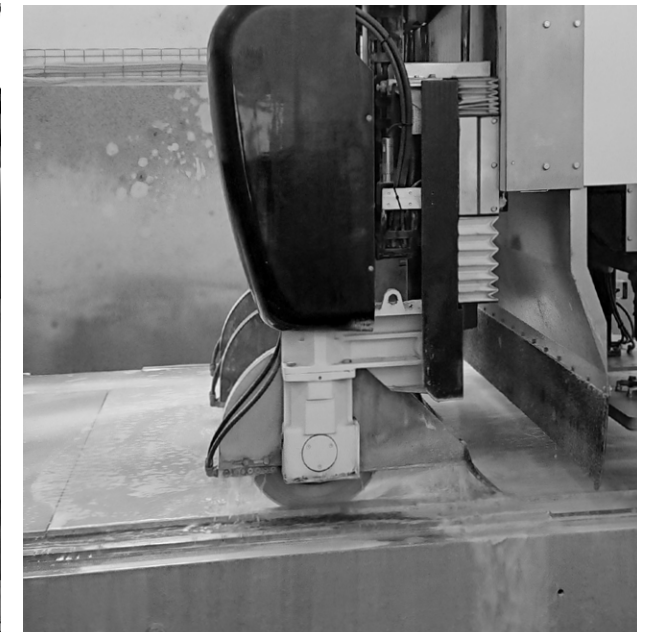

TAKT's objective is to offer integrated services and genuine bespoke solutions capable of fulfilling client requirements, even the most demanding ones. This approach has allowed us to work with prestigious companies that have made attention to detail their hallmark. These clients include companies of the calibre of Balenciaga, Louis Vuitton, Delvaux, Radisson Hotels, The Set Hotels and Sirimiri to name only a few. We start with an unmistakable, precious material that we know how to select and handle. We then work with architects and interior designers, providing them with renderings, shop drawings and cutting lists to help them obtain the best possible aesthetic return and the perfect product contextualisation.

TAKT's mission is to approach the market in an innovative, up-to-date and informed manner; the goal is to become a point of reference for the choice of marble in interior design. We are a solid business, ready and able to satisfy diverse requirements thanks to our ability to match an excellent product with the requirements of the project, whether classical or modern. We believe in balance, in dialogue and in combination. We place our skills at the service of our clients, blending a craft-based approach with state-of-the-art technology. We are always evolving because what we have learned is an ability to adapt, transform and improve ourselves without ever losing sight of our objective of excellence in terms of both product and service.

PROJECT CULTURE

We handle a noble product that has always been an artistic material. For this reason, our approach goes beyond considering marble merely as part of the finishing and gives it a higher level of importance. Michelangelo said that marble itself already contained the soul of any work of art and that the artist only had to uncover it. TAKT does just this, bringing out the stone's quality from the time of extraction by means of what may be defined as a creative and interpretative process.

The needs of our clients are interwoven with those of the material and of the relevant space as part of a unique, elegant and precious project. This combination will always represent an opportunity for emotion.

The transformation and processing of the marble follow the rules dictated by the stone itself. They respect it and they bring out the best in it so that its potential becomes reality and gives the best possible interpretation of client expectations. Our business ethos is inspired by the product itself. These are the principles on which we base our commercial approach, our way of looking at the project and our dialogue with the client.
